Getting started couldn't be simpler!

Within minutes of a quick, easy application install, the Data Collection Agent (DCA) will begin to pull detailed information from network output devices, including all network printers, copiers, faxes and multi-functional peripherals in use on the network. Powerful analytical tools then translate the raw data into useful reports accessible at any time via a Web interface. All organized in a series of easily understood reports. The data enables the customer to optimize usage more efficiently, diagnose problems as they occur and painlessly right size the printing fleet by boosting efficiencies and reducing output costs.
